PETS

in Delaware State Parks

Delaware State Parks is pleased to welcome you and your pet to enjoy the great outdoors together. While in the park, a dog or cat poses a real danger to wildlife and may disturb other visitors. In order to help keep our parks open to pets, responsible pet ownership is the key.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

- While in the park, your pet must be leashed (not to exceed 6 feet) and under your control except while:
 - In designated off-leash areas
 - Actively training for hunting in designated dog-training areas
 - Hunting with the appropriate permit
- Honor all park signs that prohibit the entry of pets into specific areas
- Guide dogs are permitted in all public areas
- Never leave pets unattended, even in your vehicle or camper

THESE AREAS ARE CLOSED TO PETS YEAR ROUND:

- Picnic areas
- Bird nesting areas
- Park buildings
- Cabins/Cottages*
- Yurts
- Brandywine Zoo

*Three dog-friendly rental units are available, one at Killens Pond State Park and two at the Cottages at Indian River Marina.

CAMPING WITH YOUR PET

Excessive barking is prohibited in the campground, especially during “quiet time” (10 p.m. to 7 a.m.).

AT THE BEACH

Pets are allowed in our seashore parks, but Delaware state law prohibits them on all swimming and sunbathing beaches from May 1 to September 30. Park rules and regulations also restrict pets from areas such as surfboarding and sailboarding beaches and shorebird nesting areas.

Please refer to the maps on the other side of this page for specific information.

BEACH ACCESS

The sandy dunes found along the coast are very fragile and are protected by law. To access beaches open to pets, use the pedestrian crossings located at designated parking areas. Pets are not permitted on bathroom boardwalks. At Gordons Pond and Fenwick Island, access is limited to the pedestrian dune crossing at the northern end of the parking lot.

Boundary markers for areas open or closed to pets will typically be designated by signs posted at the seaward toe of the dune. The signs will be located at the extreme boundaries of the closed areas, unless affected by adverse tidal conditions.

BIRD NESTING AREAS

Each spring, seabirds and small wading birds arrive along Delaware's beaches to feed, breed and fledge their young. The loss of habitat has forced beach-nesters to concentrate their efforts to only a few sites each year. Because these areas are scarce and many of these birds are threatened or endangered, these sites are protected by law.

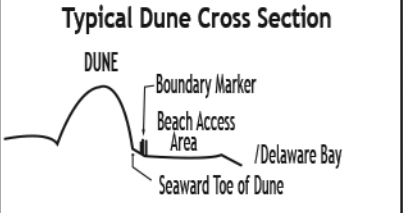

Please contact the park office or a park ranger if you have any questions regarding access to specific areas or refer to the maps in this brochure for specific information.
